MANY FAMOUS PEARLS. .

Queen Victoria of England has a neckla co of pink pearls that is worth $80,000, and the downger empress of Germany one made of thirty-two pearls that would bring easily $125,000. The Rothschild women have, lowever, gems of this sort that far exceed

It is not generally appreciated that there are enormous fortunes in single pearls and that a few individuals and great potentates have jewels of this sort which are literally worth a king's ransom. In all the world there is no more famous pearl than the Tavernier, now in the possesssion of the Shah of Persin. This remarkable remeame to this eastern king by descent and is a genuinely remarkable curiosity. It de-rives its name from having been sold by the traveler Tavermer 200 years ago to the then ruler of Persia. The price then was $500,000. It is now worth more than

This, so far as ts known, exhausts the list of truly celebrated pearls. There are many remarkable necklaces whose value is extraordinary. These necklaces are made up gradually, pearl after pearl being added to the set, and leading Jewelers are constantly on the lookout to procure gems of like rarity to extend the chain. On the whole, pink pearls are not especially val-uable, black ones bringing far higher prices and pearls that are white being sought next

Even more buildint, because it has seven rows, is thenecklace of the downger empress of Russia. The gems, however, are not quite as fine as those in the Rothschild collection. The casket of this royal lady is the most famous in the world from a gem point of view. Hardly second to it is that of the empress of Austria, whose black pearls are noted throughout Europe for their extreme beauty and rarity. What has become of the white pearls of the Empress Eugenie, sold at the close of the Franco-Prussian war, has never been made known. The value of these was some $60,000, and they were gathered together in a beautifu necklace that frequently graced the neck of that unfortunate queen.
